I present to you an immaculate four-bedroom villa in Belair, St Maarten. Picturesque ocean views, with lush green mountains and natural pond, offer some of the best views in St Maarten.

The villa is built to withstand anything. 100% concrete structure and roof. Even the roof gutters are made of concrete and recessed to provide additional strength to the roof. According to me this property in Belair can survive anything!

This well-loved Belair home is designed on two levels. The lower level holds a large studio, parking, and a covered garage. The upper floor with the best views offers you three bedrooms, kitchen, living and two bathrooms. The huge terrace on the upper level offers a private circular swimming pool with a pool lounge and gardens. Designed to entertain!

belair villa construction quality

The construction consists of a concrete structure, concrete ring beams, a concrete / block work. The roof consists of exposed wooden roofing rafters with t.1.11 plywood sheets and is covered with concrete on top.

The walls are plastered and painted. All floors are tiled with ceramic tiles. The walls in some of the bathrooms and kitchens are partially tiled with ceramic tiles. One of the bathrooms has a glass block partition shower wall. The wooden cabinets in both kitchens have a laminated wooden countertop. The kitchen on the main floor has built-in light fixtures. Part of the front porch has a concrete balustrade. Also, the front porch has circular columns offering a nice design feature.

Excellent quality of construction all round.
